Response to Amendment

1. The amendment filed on 5/8/06 has been entered. Claims 10-29 remain pending.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

3. Claims 10-29 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the project Ginter (US 5,892,900) in view of Wojcik et al (US 5,666,493).

Ginter discloses a method for tracking purchases of electronic books including the steps of: storing identifications of a plurality of electronic books for display on a viewer; associating each of the electronic books with a source; providing the electronic books for purchase by subscribers, recording an indication of purchases of the electronic books (col. 58, lines 28-49; electronic book has been around for a long time as evidenced by Ginter wherein a user can go online to purchase an ebook). Ginter does not disclose associating an amount of each purchase with the source for the corresponding electronic book (fig. 1, 300) but Wojcik discloses an electronic catalog information and storage that maintains records on purchasing transactions with the request for items, releases those purchase order requests, and notes the receipt of the items, the electronic catalog also notes location by company, division, department, user and approval hierarchy (col. 20, lines 3-13). Furthermore, Wojcik discloses an electronic catalog that may be updated by vendors, including price updates if there is approval for that practice with the vendor

(col. 19, lines 62-64), an electronic catalog that work throughout this network to update accounts payable as well as to show when there has been a payment to or by a vendor (col. 20, lines 16-19, fig. 40), Wojcik discloses a flashpoint software having various files created for the order fulfillment function used by a customer service representative (col. 5, lines 9-12, fig. 3).

From this teaching of Wojcik, it would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art to utilize the recording of purchase and the amount associated with the purchase as taught by Wojcik et al into the system of Ginter because it would allow the system manager or host to verify the information recorded for inventory purposes by being able to rapidly give details about stock remaining etc.

Response to Arguments

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 10-29 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
